

ABSTRACT

[0053] A method and apparatus for automatic user authentication are described. A plurality of applications accessible by a user are identified by examining authentication credential container of the user. A view of the plurality of applications accessible by the user is generated.